MALOLOS IS DOOMED.

The American Troops Sweeping Onward Toward the Insurgents' Capital.

The Road Behind Them Looks Like a Cyclone Had Swooped Down on the Whole Country.

Many Villages and Towns Captured by the American Forces.

Guiguinto, Three and a Half Miles From Malolos, Taken by Gen. MacArthur's Command.

Troops Crossed the River by Working Artillery Over Railroad Bridge by Hand and Swimming Mules.

The Filipinos Fight Bravely, But at Every Point They Yield to American Arms—A Decisive Battle Will Be Fought in Front of Their Capital.

MANILA, March 28.—The Americans have advanced along the line of the Dagupan railroad, driving the Filipinos from Malinta and New Canayan, where there were 3,000 inhabitants. Sunday night the brigades of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis and Gen. Hale encamped in the enemy's trenches at New Canayan and that of Gen. Wheaton at Malinta.

The Americans Monday morning found the important town of Polo and a number of small villages west of the railroad deserted and burning. They are advancing along the railroad.

Monday the Washington volunteers, who held Pasig Sunday, had an engagement with a band of insurgents who drove in their outposts. In the fight the Filipinos lost several men.

The United States troops, under Brig. Gen. Lloyd Wheaton, captured the town of Malinta, beyond the Tulihan river, Sunday, after a sharp fight. Col. C. E. Egbert, of the 23d regular infantry, was killed. Prince Loewen, formerly aide-de-camp on the staff of Brig. Gen. Miller, at Iloilo, was shot in front of the firing line and was shot in the side, dying almost instantly. A German, who accompanied the Americans, was wounded.

Occasionally the artillery and infantry fired across the stream. Finally the engineers moved a construction train up to the bridge, the iron frame work of which remained, and began to rebuild the floor.

This was going on the 2d Oregon regiment crossed the river on the morning of the 23d on the right, with companies of the 23d infantry and the latter regiment. A railroad stretched away a half mile to Malinta, situated on its crest.

When the Americans were within about 300 yards of the intrenchments, the Filipinos suddenly volleyed heavily. The 23d infantry, which was holding the center, suffered considerably; but, with the Oregons on the left and the Kansans on the right, in the woods, the fighting was kept up for half an hour, the 23d infantry advancing up the slope through the thick grass under the hottest fire.

Gen. MacArthur's advance guard, the 3d artillery and the 20th Kansas regiment, joined Gen. Wheaton's brigade shortly after Malinta was taken, approaching along the Novales road westerly.

After lunch Gen. MacArthur's division advanced toward Polo.

The 2d Oregon regiment encountered a thousand Filipinos west of Malinta who were retreating from Malabon. The enemy had taken up a position behind four rows of intrenchments, but was driven out after an hour's heavy firing. One Oregonian was killed and several were wounded.

March 28.—The Heiena and gunboats shelled Malabon and the country beyond, while the Americans focused all its batteries on Malabon for two hours for the purpose of destroying the military stores there. A great smoke was caused, but as the insurgents are in possession of the town, the results of the shelling are not obtainable.

The evacuation of Malabon was a picturesque rout, thousands of men, women and children, loaded down with household goods, fleeing to the country. The Filipinos at 9:15 a. m. Monday burned their stronghold at Malabon and their forces fled from the city in the direction of Malolos.

Gen. MacArthur's division is pushing toward Malabon. The insurgents will make their last stand probably at Malolos.

MANILA, March 28.—Gen. Arthur's division spent Sunday night and Monday morning at Maykawayan, the next town beyond Polo. After reconnoitering his front, he pushed along the road yesterday afternoon towards Malolos. It is stated of the capture of thirty-five prisoners Monday is true, the main body of the enemy has returned to Malolos. But there are no more trenches to encounter, although over thirty villages, including the larger settlements of Bulacan and Guadalupe, intervene.

The American forces advanced from Maykawayan (not Maykawayan), the brigade commanded by Gen. Harrison Gray Otis being on the left of the railroad, and Gen. Hale's on the right. They eventually discerned white roofs and steeples among the green trees beyond the river looking not unlike a Massachusetts village.

The rebels had an unfathomable river in front of them and they poured in a fire so effective that it showed that they were veterans, probably members of the native militia which the Spaniards organized.

Col. Funston, with 20 men of the Kansas regiment, swam across the river to the left of the railroad bridge, and captured 80 prisoners with all their arms.

The Pennsylvania regiment captured 40 prisoners.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Advices received by the war department show that the casualties in Saturday's and Sunday's fighting, was: Killed, three officers and 25 enlisted men; wounded, nine officers and 203 enlisted men.

NEW YORK, March 29.—A dispatch to the Herald from Manila Tuesday says:

The gunboat Laguna de Bay attacked the insurgents at Bulacan. Three Americans were wounded.

MacArthur's division has crossed the Marilao river and is advancing northward.

The insurgents attacked the Americans Monday evening at Marilao, but were repulsed with severe loss. Our loss was five killed and 14 wounded.

Later, Garcia, a native general, came down from Dagupan by train with 1,000 riflemen and 4,000 Bolomen and took positions at Marilao. A river was between the American and insurgent forces.

The South Dakota volunteers and retreating army. These bodies give forth a horrible odor, but there is no time at present to bury them. The inhabitants who fled from Marilao and Meycauayan left in such a panic that on tables our soldiers found spread money and valuables, and in the rooms were trunks containing other property of value. This was the case in most of the houses deserted. They were not molested by our soldiers, but the Chinese, who slip in between the armies, are looting when they can and have taken possession of several houses, over which they raised Chinese flags some of which were torn down.

The American forces met with strong opposition in the jungle. First one Nebraskan, then one Pennsylvanian and afterwards two of the Montana regiments were killed. Thirty-five were wounded, including one officer of the Kansas regiment. The rebels burned the villages as they retreated in bad order toward Malolos. The enemy also tore up sections of the railroad in many places and attempted to burn the bridge at Bigaa, but the fire was extinguished owing to the timely arrival of the Americans. The rebels had not finished their trenches along the line of Wednesday's march, showing they were not prepared for our advance.

Gen. MacArthur's victorious division took lunch Wednesday at Bigaa, seven miles from Malolos, the Filipino capital, and the headquarters of Aguinaldo. Bocave was captured at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, then the second advance to Bigaa, distant two miles, was made. Bigaa was taken without a shot being fired, the enemy fleeing at the approach of the Americans.

MANILA, March 30.—After a couple of hours of rest Gen. MacArthur's division pushed on across rice fields and rivers through the jungle without meeting any opposition, the enemy flying from the villages of Taal, Ucat and Bigaa, after burning them. Even the town of Bulacan, the capital of the province, was burned and abandoned, although Gen. MacArthur passed miles to the right. At 5 o'clock the Cuban Assembly Believes $3,000,000 Inadequate to Pay Cuban Troops.

The Assembly Desires at Least $10,000,000 and as Much More as Can Be Obtained—The Most Amicable Relations With the United States Is Wanted.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Senors Jose R. Villalon and A. Hevia, who were appointed by the Cuban assembly to present to the Washington authorities the resolutions of that body, have arrived in this city. Their mission, in addition to the presentation of the resolutions, is to explain in detail the situation with reference to the insurgent army. While the assembly did not reject the $3,000,000 which Gen. Gomez arranged with Mr. Robert P. Porter to receive and pay off the Cuban troops, they believed it to be entirely inadequate to meet the situation. They desire at least $10,000,000 and as much more as can be obtained. They argue that if the Cuban army is disbanded after the distribution of but $3,000,000, which would give to each enlisted man about $68, that the money so obtained would be barely sufficient for them to procure clothes and return to their homes, leaving them no margin upon which to enter upon the peaceful pursuits of life. Without the means of subsistence, Senor Villalon says that disorders would almost inevitably follow and perhaps brigandage. The object both of the United States and of the assembly, says Mr. Villalon, is to secure tranquility in Cuba preparatory to the settling up by the Cuban people of an independent government, and he says that it is, therefore, as much to the interests of the United States authorities as to those who immediately represent the Cuban patriots to see that the disbanded soldiers are given an opportunity to return to civil pursuits. The assembly represents, not the Cuban people, Mr. Villalon declares, but only those who have been in arms struggling for their independence. Had Cuba achieved her absolute independence, he says, the revolutionary assembly would have raised sufficient funds to pay off the army in full, and in as much as the United States now assumes and exercises the functions of a trustee for the Cuban people during the re-establishment of order throughout the island preparatory to the establishment of a stable and independent government, he, as the representative of the assembly, will urge that it is the duty of the United States to furnish ample funds, repayable subsequently out of the Cuban revenues. They desire that the Washington authorities shall fully understand the dangers which may follow if the insurgents are disbanded and sent to their homes without adequate means to begin life afresh. If the United States adheres to the present understanding with Gen. Gomez and the army is disbanded upon the $3,000,000 basis and disorder follows, the assembly wants its skirts clear of responsibility.

Senor Villalon says that the assembly desires the most amicable relations with the United States; that nothing could exceed the gratitude of the Cubans for the aid the United States has rendered, but they can not too strongly emphasize the belief that the problem of the future would be greatly simplified if enough funds are distributed among the Cuban soldiers now to insure their being able to return to peaceful pursuits. The assembly will, Senor Villalon says, probably be dissolved as soon as the army is disbanded as it represents only the Cubans in arms. He believes that within a year a convention representing the whole Cuban people will meet and frame a constitution and be ready for the assumption of the duties of self-government.

Senor Villalon and his colleague will probably seek an audience with the president himself, and if this is denied them they will see the secretary of war. If the president receives these gentlemen it will be as visiting citizens, not in their representative capacity. No such recognition will be accorded them. If they desire to present a petition or request to this government it will have to go through the ordinary channels, and, in this instance, it will be through the military arm of the government. Such a petition, when presented, will be referred to Gen. Brooke, as military governor of Cuba, and the one person authorized to deal with Cuban affairs. It is also probable that these Cubans will be told that any answer to the request or petition will come from Gen. Brooke.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The following advices from Manila were received by the war department Wednesday night:

MANILA, March 30.—Adjutant General, Washington: MacArthur advanced at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning from Marilao. Passed rapidly to Bocave. At 11:45 took up advance for Bigaa and at 3:15, afternoon, for Guiguinto, three and one-half miles from Malolos, reaching that point at 5. Casualties for the day about 70. Fierce fighting in the afternoon. Troops made crossing of river at Guiguinto by working artillery over railroad bridge by hand and swimming mules against fierce resistance. Column will pass on railroad to extreme front, nearly repaired and will re-supply troops Thursday.

SAMOAN TOWNS BOMBARDED.

American and British War Ships Destroy Several Villages—There Were a Number of Casualties.

APIA, Samoan Islands, March 23, via Auckland, N. Z., March 30.—The troubles growing out of the election of a king of Samoa have taken a more serious turn and resulted in the bombardment of native villages along the shore by the United States cruiser Philadelphia, Adm. Krutz commanding, and the British cruisers Porpoise and Royalist. The bombardment has continued intermittently for eight days. Several villages have been burned and there have been a number of casualties among the American and British sailors and marines. As yet it is impossible to estimate the number of natives killed or injured.

As Mataafa and his chiefs, constituting the provisional government, continued to defy the treaty after the arrival of the Philadelphia, Adm. Kautz summoned the various consuls and the senior naval officers to a conference on board the Philadelphia, when the whole situation was carefully canvassed. The upshot was a resolution to dismiss the provisional government and Adm. Kautz issued a proclamation calling upon Mataafa and his chiefs to return to their homes. Mataafa evacuated Mulinu, the town he had made his headquarters, and went into the interior.

KING MATAAFA.
(Recently Elected to the Rather Shaky Throne of Samoa.)

Herr Rose, German consul at Apia, issued a proclamation supplementing the one he had issued several weeks before, upholding the provisional government. As a result of this the Mataafans assembled in large force and hemmed in the town.

The British cruiser Royalist brought the Malietoa prisoners from the islands to which they had been transferred by the provisional government.

The Americans then fortified Mulinu, where 22,000 Malietoans took refuge. The rebels—the adherents of Mataafa—barricaded the roads within the municipality and seized the British houses.

An ultimatum was then sent to them, ordering them to evacuate, and threatening them, in the event of refusal, with a bombardment to commence at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of March 15. This was ignored and the rebels commenced an attack in the direction of the United States and British consuls about half an hour before the time fixed for the bombardment. The Philadelphia, Porpoise and Royalist fired upon the rebels. There was great difficulty in locating the enemy, owing to the dense forest; but several shore villages were soon in flames.

A defective shell from the Philadelphia exploded near the American consulate, and the marines outside narrowly escaped. A fragment struck the leg of Private Rudge, shattering it so badly as to necessitate amputation. Another fragment traversed to the German consulate, smashing the crockery. The Germans then went on board the German cruiser Falke.

During the night the rebels made a hot attack on the town, killing three British sailors. A British marine was shot in the leg by a sentry of his own party, another was shot in the foot and an American sentry was killed at his post.

The bombardment continuing, the inhabitants of the town took refuge on board the Royalist, greatly crowding the vessel.

Many people are leaving Samoa, the captain of the Royalist urging them to go, so as not to interfere with the military operations.

The Porpoise has shelled the villages east and west of Apia and captured many boats.

The Americans and British are fighting splendidly together, but there is a bitter feeling against the Germans.

Two men, a British and a German subject, have been arrested as spies.

The bombardment of the jungle was for a time very hot.

A Finland Maiden Who Had One Qualification for the Position of Cook.

The servant girl question is even more difficult in small western cities than it is in New York. There no lady ventures to ask a reference, but contents herself with a verbal examination of her applicant's capabilities.

There was an avalanche of Swedes and Finlanders in a small town last winter, and one wild-haired dame presented herself as a candidate for a $20-a-month position as cook. The prospective mistress thus interrogated her:

"Can you make good bread?"
"Bro?"
"Can you make soup?"
"Soup?"
"Do you understand roasting meats?"
"Meat?"
"Can you broil?"
"Broil?"
"Can you clean brasses?"
"Naw."
"Can you wash and iron?"

"Can you scrub?"

"Well, my goodness, girl! What can you do?"

The Finlander reflected. Then she answered proudly: "I can milk a reindeer!"

THE CARUTHERS AFFAIR

By WILL HARBEN
Copyright, 1898, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

SYNOPSIS.

Minard Hendricks, great detective, just returned from Boston, finds awaiting him an unsigned typewritten letter directing him to apartments in Palace hotel, where he will find remains of Mr. Weldon Caruthers—currently reported for past two weeks to be out of town. Detective seems to connect letter with attempt made on his own life some time previous. Goes with friend, Dr. Lampkin, to investigate. Upon search of Caruthers' apartments remains of cremated body and jeweled hand of victim are found in a vase. Hand bears marks of finger nails manacled to sharp points. Lampkin recalls reports of a row between Caruthers and Arthur Gielow, both suitors for hand of Dorothy Huntington, who is heiress to several millions should she marry Caruthers, unconditionally in case of Caruthers' death. Late that night Hendricks and Lampkin call at home of Miss Huntington. Dorothy shows detective typewritten letter, which was an invitation for herself and aunt to occupy with Count Bantini, Italian nobleman, his box at horse show, as he was called out of town by pressing business. She recalls Gielow had expressed belief in murder intense hatred for Caruthers and believed him guilty, yet decides to help him, and with her aunt goes to his studio. Gielow has fled. His servant, Henri, tells of overhearing confession to Bantini. Henri thought his master insane. Hendricks, concealed in room, hears all this. Hendricks goes to consult Kola, an East Indian interested in occult researches who had helped him in much previous detective work, and located in an old colonial mansion among the palisades. Dr. Lampkin is summoned by Hendricks, who has been warned not to leave his room. Hendricks calls for a crematory employe, who confirms the supposition that ashes found were those of human body. Miss Huntington receives letter from Gielow in his own handwriting, postmarked at Charleston, S. C., telling of his crime and flight. Noted graphologist examines handwriting of this letter and says it is genuine. During a call on Sgt. Denham detective of police department, Hendricks comes into possession of cuff with words written in blood over Gielow's name to effect that he was innocent, starving and confined. Going to Gielow's studio, Henri identifies cuff as his master's. Henri tells of strange influence Bantini had over Gielow. Hendricks comes to conclusion Bantini was the murderer, and through hypnotism made Gielow confess both in person to Henri and by letters to others. Hendricks and Lampkin go to Kola's retreat. Kola tells them Gielow is dead, and to prove his supernatural powers claims to go to the detective's home in his astral body and bring back a Bible, which is handed to Hendricks amidst a lot of occult balderdash. Kola warns detective an attempt is to be made on his life. Reaching home, Hendricks learns how nearly Kola deceived him when his mother tells of disappearance of Bible after one of Kola's calls during his absence in Boston. Coming now to Gielow's experiences, the story goes back to night of murder, when Bantini by his strange power abducted his victim. Bantini tells his prisoner he is in his power and how during three days of unconsciousness he had been used to write letters to Miss Huntington and the police. The imprisoned artist manages to loosen a stone in side of cell. Through this opening he passes his own written message to the outer world. Sgt. Denham, not having known of Hendricks' connection with the affair, comes to him for advice. This brings out fact that cuff was found near palisades. Detective is now convinced of identity of Kola and Bantini, and with Denham and Lampkin, joined by Miss Huntington, who begs to accompany them, set out to rescue Gielow. Hendricks and Lampkin, leaving Denham and Miss Huntington in carriage, go into the old house. Here they are trapped by Kola, and would have been plunged to their death through trap door in floor had not Denham appeared. Kola is bound. By means of either the doctor decides to make him talkative.

"Good, good!" approved Hendricks, as Kola's body began to grow limp. "Give him some more!"

"Oh, no, he must not be too deeply under it," objected Lampkin. "He is just right now. Let him loose. I'll manage him as easily as a rowboat downstream. Now, if he will only talk!"

Kola's face was bloodless. For a moment there was no sound inside or outside of the house. Lampkin raised the towel a little, for the lips of the Indian were moving.

A harsh laugh broke from the death-like face.

"It's the wisdom of the east," chuckled Kola. "I'll never be suspected, and when Hendricks is out of the way, I shall be free. Yes, free, and rich, and as powerful as a king."

There he paused. Lampkin held up his hand to warn the others not to speak, and in a distinct voice said:

"But Gielow—will he be found?"

"Never!" burst impulsively from Kola's lips. "No one else knows the secret door. No one would think of the head of the dragon."

The eyes of Hendricks and the doctor met. Hendricks flashed knowingly, and he grunted as he turned and ran into the hall. A moment later Lampkin followed, finding the detective examining the walnut dragon at the foot of the stairs.

"I believe on my life that the head of the thing unscrews," Hendricks exclaimed, excitedly. "See where it has been rubbed by use. By Jove, I have it!"

Grasping the head in his hands, Hendricks gave it a powerful wrench, and it began to turn. In a moment it came off, and they saw, protruding from a hollow tube in the neck of the dragon, a steel rod with a ring on its end. Hendricks tried to push the rod downward, but it resisted his efforts. Then, ascending the steps till he was above the ring, he pulled it steadily upward. A little bell inside the dragon rang. This was followed by a creaking sound under the hell floor, and a tall gilt-framed plate-glass mirror in the brick wall near by leaned outward on one side. Running to it, Lampkin pulled it out and found that it turned on hidden hinges. And behind the mirror was revealed a doorway and a narrow flight of stairs leading downward into the darkness. There was a lantern in the first step, and Hendricks lighted it, and holding it above his head he hurried down the stairs. At first the steps were of wood, but deeper down they were of unhewn stone.

Perhaps 40 feet from the surface of the earth, they found themselves in a long, narrow cavern, which wound about like a serpent's trail. And when they had gone perhaps 200 yards from their starting point they found themselves stopped by a brick wall in which was a rusty iron door. The door was locked, but a bunch of keys hung on a hook near by.

"We have found him," said Lampkin. Hendricks nodded as he began to try the keys in the lock. After many failures, the door was finally opened, and in the combined light of the lantern and a streak of daylight that came in at a tiny crack in the rock, they saw, crouching in a corner, a white-faced creature with walling eyes and disheveled hair.

"Who is it?" came from his lips in a rasping whisper.

"Friends," said Hendricks.

Gielow tried to rise, but fell backward.

"In God's name—water!" he gasped. "Here, drink this first," said Lampkin, kneeling and drawing out from his pocket a flask of brandy. Gielow tried to take the bottle in his hands, but his fingers were too stiff from cold. Dr. Lampkin placed the bottle to his lips, and Gielow drank.

"Oh, thank God!" he said. "Is it true, are you friends?"

"This is Mr. Minard Hendricks," answered Lampkin, with a glance at the holder of the lantern, "and Miss Huntington is outside in a carriage waiting to take you home."

"Oh, no, really?" cried the prisoner, and then he lowered his head to his knees and laughed like a happy child. "It seems like years since I came here."

He tried again to rise, but Lampkin stopped him.

"You must first drink some of this liquid food," he said.

As he opened the bottle, Gielow eyed it like a famished beast. As he was taking it from a spoon from the doctor's hands, Hendricks peered out through the crack.

"I have the solution now," he remarked. "In cutting the new road along here, they came within a few feet of chopping the end off this cavern. The blasting caused the crack. He must have thrust his message through it."

Gielow nodded as he ate, but he made no comment.

"Now, that is enough for the present," said Lampkin. "We must get you out of here and warm you up before we do anything else."

They raised the artist to his feet, and bore him slowly between them along the dark passage, and up the dark stairs to the hall above.

"We'll take him straight to Kola's room and wrap him up," said the doctor.

CHAPTER XXI.

When they had put him in a big, soft bed in the chamber adjoining Kola's reception room, Hendricks went out to the carriage. The green curtain was still down, but he saw that it was pulled aside, and that the occupant was peering cautiously out. When she saw him coming, she opened the carriage door and looked anxiously into his face.

Hendricks smiled.

"Gielow is safe," he said. "He is weak, of course, but he will pull through all right."

She seemed unable either to answer or to move. The stare of her eyes seemed to indicate doubt on her part as to the verity of the news.

"I think you might come in, if you wish," added Hendricks. "We have put him to bed, and the doctor is preparing something warm for him."

Without a word, she got out of the carriage, and dumbly followed him. As they were ascending the steps, she paused half-way up the flight and looked at Hendricks pitifully, and then down at her feet. Her knees bent and she clutched his arm.

"I—I don't know what's the matter with me," she faltered. "I don't seem able to move. Oh, please pardon my weakness."

"It's the shock," said Hendricks, almost tenderly. "You must try to calm yourself. All the trouble is over, you know, and the prisoner is in chains."

"I thought something serious had happened," she said, slowly recovering. "I heard the crash, and then, as you did not appear, and the sergeant remained. I thought something was wrong."

"Perhaps you had better go back to the carriage and not try to go in," suggested Hendricks.

The remark seemed to rouse her to action.

"Oh, no, I must see him! I can help," and, releasing his arm, she mounted the steps unaided.

Hendricks led her to the door of the room where they had taken Gielow. Lampkin appeared on the threshold.

"He's begging to see you, Miss Huntington," said he.

He pushed the door open, and when she had gone in he closed it and stood facing Hendricks. For a moment they looked into each other's eyes without speaking. Then Hendricks turned away abruptly.

He went into a little alcove off the big reception-room, and, glancing at Denham and the sleeping Indian, he rang the telephone.

He ordered from the nearest police station a patrol wagon, for the prisoner, and an ambulance, with all the comforts available, for the transportation of an invalid. Then he came and looked down at Kola's face.

"I presume you found Gielow pretty bad off," remarked Denham. There was something in his tone which showed vast respect for Hendricks.

Hendricks nodded, and then he stretched his hand over Kola to the young officer.

"My boy, you saved three lives this morning, and showed the sort of stuff you are made of. I shall never forget you. You won't lose by it. I shall speak to your chief about you. If he ever goes back on you, or you need employment, come to me."

Denham flushed to the roots of his hair.

"Thank you, Mr. Hendricks," he said, feelingly.

At this juncture the Indian opened his eyes and stared fixedly at Hendricks.

"I hate you, Hendricks," were his first words.

"Flies seem to do the same thing in the summer," answered Hendricks, drily, "but I manage to get along. I am not bald-headed."

"If you will guarantee safety to me," said Kola, after a moment's deliberation, "I will restore Gielow to you. He may be alive yet, but if I do not reveal the secret of his hiding-place he will never see the light of day. I tell you I am positively the only living possessor of the secret."

Hendricks' face wore a comical expression. He glanced at Denham and said:

"Rich, isn't it?"

Denham nodded, and Kola's bead-like eyes rolled back and forth wonderingly as his gaze vibrated between them.

"It is not an unreasonable request," said he.

"You forget," replied Hendricks, suavely, "that you have already courtedously volunteered all the information necessary. You are a gem, Count Bantini. You actually do so many good deeds that you forget about them. You, of course, remember telling us about the head of the dragon, the lantern, the stone stairs, the long cavern, and the cell at the end."

Kola's face darkened. He reflected a moment and then said:

"I see you made me talk unconsciously. I acknowledge that you have undone me completely."

He sat up and his handcuffs clanked as he folded his hands over his knee.

"Is Gielow alive?" he questioned.

"Thanks, yes," said Hendricks.

"Well, I am glad of that, anyway. He stood between me and my desire, that's all I had against him."

Half an hour later Hendricks went out on the veranda and looked down the road. Dr. Lampkin was there walking back and forth.

"How's Gielow?" asked the detective.

"Tip-top," answered the doctor. "He'll be at his easel in a week. How's the prisoner?"

"Resigned and meek as a lamb," answered the detective. "He made a complete confession to Denham and myself just now."

"And I presume the mystery is solved at last," remarked Lampkin, tentatively. "I must say, however, that I am still in the dark on one or two features of the case. For instance, it seems an unnecessary thing for Kola to cremate the body and inform you anonymously that the remains would be found in the hotel."

"That seems to have been an afterthought, and there was a reason for it," explained Hendricks. "He was spending a pleasant evening with his victim in Caruthers' rooms and committed the deed sooner than he really intended. Caruthers, it appears, was just beginning to suspect that Kola was not an Italian, and a dispute arose between them. Kola struck him a single blow in the temple, and he fell dead without a sound or blood."

"Ah, I see!" exclaimed Lampkin.

"Then," went on Hendricks, "Kola feared, as he was seen to enter Caruthers' rooms, that he would be suspected, so he quickly resorted to the excellent scheme of making it appear that his victim had suddenly left the city."

"He first crowded Caruthers' body into one of his big trunks and deliberately went down to the street and employed a passing baggageman to come up for the trunk, pretending that it was his. Without attracting notice, he got the trunk delivered at his own rooms in town, and early the next morning had it removed out here by his Indian servant. He next dropped Caruthers' valet a note from Philadelphia, which was mailed in that city by an eastern confederate, and later he forged another communication to Miss Huntington."

"But, in the meantime, he was thinking of some unique means of totally destroying the body. He ended by cutting it up and reducing it to ashes by oxy-hydrogen flame, all except the hand, which, for a time, escaped his notice. He was about to throw the ashes away when he ran across the hand. Then the thought occurred to him that unless it was proved beyond doubt that Caruthers was actually dead there would be endless litigation before Miss Huntington could come into her uncle's estate. As you know, that would not have suited Kola, so he put the ashes and hand in the vase, and managed to get them into Caruthers' apartments. His first idea was that it would be taken for the work of a crank, hence his cranky letter to me. His next inspiration was to hypnotize Gielow and make him confess and flee, but for a week the artist persistently avoided him, and it was not till Kola discovered that I was back from Boston that he accidentally met the artist and accomplished his purpose."

"But why did Kola make the first attempt on your life?" asked the doctor.

"Because he had already decided to murder Caruthers, marry the heiress and continue his role of Italian count in New York, and was afraid that I would sooner or later recognize him."

"But the second attempt on your life?" questioned Lampkin.

"Was because he found out that I was at the rooms of Count Bantini the morning after Gielow's apparent flight, and was afraid I would finally discover his disguise. I think from the fact that he avoided me during that time that he was afraid of me, but after he played the Bible trick on us I think he believed he could frighten me out of following up the Bantini clue and into a belief in the guilt of Gielow. However, his fears got the best of him and he decided to kill both you and me by means of his dead-fall."

Just then there was the sound of a gong down the road and the patrol wagon dashed into view.

"The ambulance will follow pretty soon," remarked Hendricks. "Doctor, I am going to leave you and Miss Huntington with the patient while Denham and I go in with our booty."

"That will be all right," answered Lampkin. "We'll look after him."

Denham and Hendricks had led Kola out to the wagon and put him in, and Hendricks was about to climb in after him when Dr. Lampkin came to the door and signaled to Hendricks to come back.

"Miss Huntington wants to see you before you go," he said.

A sheepish expression was mingled with the flush on Hendricks' face as he entered the room where Gielow lay awake and smiling contentedly. Miss Huntington rose from the bedside and held out her hand.

"I couldn't let you go without speaking to you," she said, her eyes filling. "I shall never forget your goodness as long as I live. You are the best friend I ever had. Arthur," she said, turning to Gielow, "I cannot say what I want to say. I am going to kiss him." And she put her arms around the neck of the detective and kissed him on the lips.

Hendricks grew very red in the face, and saying something about wishing he had it all to do over again, he backed from the room. As he turned at the threshold he stumbled over a rug and almost fell into Lampkin's arms.

The doctor braced him up with a hand on each of his shoulders, and grinned and smacked his lips significantly. But Hendricks only swore at him, waxed redder in the face and descended to the wagon and crawled in beside Kola.

THE END.

NICE PRESENT FOR A BRIDE.

A Former Sweetheart of Charlie's Gave Her a Pillow Stuffed with His Pretty Curls.

Both of the girls had been unfortunate enough to fall in love with the same man at different periods of his and their existence, and the girl who had been engaged to him for over three years at one time was not the one who finally married him. The other girl, while knowing nothing of the actual engagement, knew that the first girl had been a strong and dangerous rival, and she was more than pleased to receive, among her other wedding gifts, a dainty remembrance from her husband's old love. The husband, being better acquainted with the old love, suspected something peculiar, although he didn't know what or why.

"That was a beautiful slumber pillow you sent us," said the bride to the other girl, upon the occasion of the first call, "and such lovely, firm filling, too. What is it filled with, dearie—excelsior or curled hair?"

"Curled hair," the other girl made smiling answer, "curled hair, my dear Charlie's hair, in fact. All the time he was engaged to me—over three years, as you know, of course, darling. I made him save his pretty curls every time the barber cut them, and bring them to me. It was an awful bother to him, but he always would do anything I asked him—I hope your influence over him is half as strong, my dear girl—and I got enough hair in time, naturally curled hair, you might say, to make a lovely big pillow. I thought you really ought to have it now, as you finally captured him, so I sent it to you. Tell Charlie all about it, won't you?"

The ragman who haunts the alleys of that particular neighborhood made the find of a beautiful soft pillow on the bride's garbage box next morning. —Chicago Times-Herald.

Important Steps.

Not long ago a number of constables were assembled at Scotland Yard, London, for the purpose of being examined in matters relating to police duty, previous to being appointed as sergeants. The following question was asked a candidate by a member of the examining board: "You are on duty in the vicinity of a menagerie, and you are informed that a lion has broken loose and is roaming about the streets. What steps would you take?" "Jolly long ones, sir!" replied the constable, to the amusement of the other members of the board. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Gen. Castleman's Opinion.

(Lexington Herald.)

General John B. Castleman was in the city last night, having come over from Paris, where he is in attendance at the insurance trial, to spend the night. When asked what he thought would be the outcome of the trial, General Castleman said that of course he could not foretell that, but from the brilliant defense being made by Colonel Breckinridge he thought that the insurance companies would win. He said that trial was progressing smoothly and nicely, and he thought it would be concluded Saturday.

"If the case is lost," said the General, "it will be carried to the court of Appeals, and I am confident that the decision will be reversed; but if it is not, it will mean the withdrawal of many of the companies from the State."

Theatrical And Otherwise—Remarks In The Fore.

Nat. C. Goodwin and Maxine Elliot intend to present "The Cowboy and the Lady" in London next June.

Evelyn Willard will play "Glory Quayle" in the production of "The Christian," soon to be put on in London.

Edith Boone, of Philadelphia, is suing Fred Farrow for $15,000 for squeezing her hands so hard that they ache constantly and prevent her from working with them. Doctors say that one of her hands may have to be amputated if necrosis sets in.

Viola Allen will sail for Europe after the close of her Boston engagement and will stay abroad until late in August. She will open her next season at Powers' Theater, Chicago, early in September. She will confine her tour next season to the South and West.

The most brilliant audience seen at the Paris opera house this season assembled Monday night, despite a downpour of rain, to hear the Scalchi concert. The program gave general satisfaction, each number being heartily received. Some persons who had heard Mme. Scalchi years ago claimed that her voice had given way, but it is evident that the famous singer still has a powerful, sweet and musical contralto, under excellent control. Signor Alberti, the baritone, made quite a favorable impression, and gave the Torreador song from Carmen in splendid style. Mlle. Noldi and Signor Canzio were very favorably received. The program closed with the fourth act of "Il Trovatore."

Be Careful

No woman can be too careful of her condition during the period before her little ones are born. Neglect or improper treatment then endangers her life and that of the child. It lies with her whether she shall suffer unnecessarily, or whether the ordeal shall be made comparatively easy. She had better do nothing than do something wrong.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

Is the one and the only preparation that is safe to use. It is a liniment that penetrates from the outside. External applications are eternally right. Internal medicines are radically wrong. They are more than humbugs—they endanger life.

Mother's Friend helps the muscles to relax and expand naturally—relieves morning sickness—removes the cause of nervousness and headache—prevents hard and rising breasts—shortens labor and lessens the pains—and helps the patient to rapid recovery.

From a letter by a Shreveport, La., woman: "I have been using your wonderful remedy, Mother's Friend, for the last two months, and find it just as recommended."

Druggists sell it at $1 per bottle.

No Lady Would Do Such a Thing.

No lady would take her watch when out of order, to the first person who displayed the sign "Watches Regulated and Repaired." But she would carefully enquire for a man whose acknowledged skill entitled him to take in charge the delicate mechanism.

How much more careful should a woman be, when she herself is disordered, not to trust the delicate and complex mechanism of her being to the first man or woman who displays the sign "Medical Advice Given." No sign is to be trusted which says "Medical Advice Given" and stops there. Medical advice can be given only by a physician. An accredited physician will put his title with his name. Suppose a sign reads, "Medical Advice Given by a Man." What woman would not instantly say, "The fact of being a man doesn't qualify him to give medical advice. He must be a physician to do that." But suppose the sign reads: "Medical Advice Given by a Woman." Is not the fact just as patent that being a woman does not qualify her to give medical advice? The woman must be a physician to do that. Medical advice given by an unskilled woman is just as dangerous as if given by an unskilled man.

In inviting sick and ailing woman to consult him by letter without charge, Dr. Pierce points to an experience and practice of over thirty years, devoted specially to diseases peculiar to women. In that time Dr. Pierce and his associate staff of medical specialists have successfully treated more than half a million women. All correspondence is treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Letters are promptly answered, and the answers are mailed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing upon them. Write without fee and without fear to Dr. R. W. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

High Grade Cemetery Work.

EVERY monument bears testimony not only to the virtues of the deceased but to the taste of the living. Our specialty is the erection of monuments which are unique without being grotesque, and artistic without being overdecorated, made from modern designs by careful workmen. There is a decided advantage for the buyer in dealing with a responsible firm for both the manufacture and the setting of a monument.

Landmarks Torn Away.

At noon Wednesday workmen began to tear away the buildings lately occupied by the Bourbon and the Agricultural Banks to clear a site for a handsome three story brick building to be erected by the Agricultural Bank. The building will be completely torn away by tonight.

The building lately occupied by the Bourbon Bank—with the Grianan gallery up-stairs—was erected in 1834 by Jonathan Massie, father of W. W. Massie. It has been occupied as a clothing store, millinery store, and a bank, and was sold to the Agricultural Bank by W. A. Bacon who has owned it for many years.

The Agricultural Bank building was built in 1840 by Lyle & Walker, who occupied it as a bookstore, newspaper office, and it was later used as a drug store. It was sold by Col. J. G. Craddock to the Agricultural Bank which has occupied it for the past twenty-three years, during which time the bank has paid forty-four dividends which averaged five per cent. Until the new building is completed the bank will be located in the Gnadinger's storeroom, next door to F. P. Lowry & Co. The bank has already had a number of applications for offices in the new building.

Bill Jackson, a colored man who was helping to pull down the buildings, was considerably hurt yesterday afternoon by a wall falling on him. He was standing on the floor of the second story when the wall fell, and was pulled down with it. He had to quit work and go home.

A Religious Editor's Experience.

Judge Harmon Stitt, editor of the Millersburg Gazette, had two very unusual experiences Tuesday night which almost scared the meanness out of him. About seven o'clock while he was in this city standing at a telephone talking to his partner in Millersburg, the line was struck by lightning, and Judge Stitt was whirled around twice and made deathly sick by the shock. After the Seachi concert he and attorney R. P. Dow, Jr., retired in a folding bed at the Windsor and narrowly escaped being killed by the bed folding up on them. The heavy back-piece of the bed fell down on them and they were barely able to squeeze out of it uninjured. They then awoke landlord Howe and were given another room and were soon enjoying the rest of the righteously in a regulation bed warranted not to close up under any circumstances. The accident seems a prank of fate, as Judge Stitt has a log attached to the folding bed at his home to keep the foot-piece from folding up on him.

College Boys To Debate.

Students from Georgetown College and Central University, Richmond, will debate to-night at the Paris opera house on the subject of "Expansion." Georgetown will take the affirmative side, and Richmond the negative. The admission will be twenty-five cents to all parts of the house. Each college will very likely send over a good delegation, and the event should draw a liberal local patronage.

The students of State College and Centre will debate on the same subject to-night at Lexington, the former favoring expansion, and the latter opposing.

Parisians Moving.

ATTORNEY Clifton Arnsperger has moved into the Ford residence on Duncan avenue, which he recently purchased, and Mrs. Sobrina Lowry and family will board with them. Mrs. Redmon and family have moved from the McMillan property on South Main street, to the Pullen property vacated by Mrs. Lowry. F. B. Carr will move next week to the Arnsperger residence on Vine street, which he purchased last week.

Isaac Price moved yesterday to Dr. Varden's new residence on Main street. Brooks Frakes has moved into the residence opposite the Christian Church. Prof. E. W. Weaver and family have moved to the residence on Main street, lately occupied by Councilman James O'Brien.

Transferred To The Trust.

THE plant of the Bourbon Distilling Co., at Riddles Mills, was transferred Wednesday by President Wm. Addams, of Cynthiana, to the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company, which purchased it several weeks ago. The price mentioned in the deed, which was placed on record Wednesday in County Clerk Paton's office, is $10,000. The document had $10 worth of revenue stamps on it. The Paris Distilling Co. yesterday transferred its large plant in this city to the same company. The consideration was not named, but it is thought that the price for the plant and the whiskey on hand will aggregate $850,000.

Held Up In Jeffersonville.

THE Louisville Post last night said that Oscar Current and John K. Houston, of this city, were robbed in Jeffersonville, Ind., Wednesday. Houston was relieved of $9.75 and a pocket knife, and Current lost $10 and a revolver.

W. K. Vanderbilt has given W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who is to wed Miss Fair, a wedding present of $10,000,000. Miss Fair has $5,000,000.

Marriage seems to be something of a failure over at Richmond. There are forty divorce cases on the docket of the Circuit Court which convenes there Monday.

Walter P. Shaw, of Louisville formerly of this city, was married in Cincinnati Tuesday to Miss Alma Clevely, Rev. Lee performing the ceremony. The bride is a handsome young lady from London, Canada. After spending a week in Louisville they will leave for a trip through California.

The engagement of Miss Besse Woodford and Mr. Thomas Henry Clay, Jr., has been announced. The wedding will occur on the nineteenth of April. Mr. Clay is the youngest son of Mr. Thos. Henry Clay, the wealthy land owner, and Miss Woodford is the lovely daughter of Mr. Buckner Woodford, cashier of the Bourbon Bank. Both of the young people are prominent in society circles.

Imperial spectacles and eyeglasses have perfect lenses, always perfectly centered and made of purest material, set in frames of the highest elasticity and consequently of greatest durability, united with the utmost lightness and elegance. When both frames and lenses are scientifically fitted by Dr. C. H. Bowen's system they always give satisfaction for they are perfect. Never buy cheap spectacles, nor of men who do not know how to fit them. You will get poorly adjusted spectacles, or poor, imperfect lenses, and are better off without any glasses than with either of these defects. Buy imperial spectacles of a reliable, skillful dealer, and they will last longer without change and be cheapest in the end.

We have engaged the services of Dr. C. H. Bowen who will visit our store on the second and last Thursdays of each month and invite all to call and have their eyes examined, for which there is no charge. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

MISSING VACANCIES.

There was a Box of Them and They Were Held by the Agent for Charges.

A short time since quite a discussion arose among the officials of one of our prominent southern railroads as to the reason of the many vexatious delays and troubles in the transmission of local freight. It was claimed by some of the parties interested that it was caused almost entirely by the stupidity or inefficiency of the local agents, and as there was some difference of opinion on this point, it was decided that the matter should be tested.

To this end a tracer was prepared in due and formal shape, calling for the whereabouts of "One Box of Post-holes," which it alleged was missing from a prior shipment. This was sent out in the regular order of business, with nothing except its "internal nothingness" to draw attention to its unusual character, and passed agent after agent without eliciting comment or information save the stereotyped indorsement: "Not here."

Some 15 or 18 local agents were actually passed in this way, until the tracer fell into the hands of a bright young fellow who was accustomed to looking into the business passing through his hands, and who speedily came to the conclusion that the tracer had gone far enough. At any rate the document went speedily back to the general office with the following indorsement: "Box of Post-holes, as per enclosed, held at this station for local charges to amount of $2.50. Will be forwarded on receipt of same." Under this indorsement was written: "N. B.—The price of beer at this station is $2.50 per keg." It is said that the charges went forward.—Harper's Magazine.

CHEAP LEGAL ADVICE.

A Man Who Believed in Paying a Lawyer for His Opinion.

The other day an old fellow slouched into Attorney Oscar Kahn's office, on Legal row, and introduced himself as Mr. Smith, Jones, Brown, or something, of a neighboring county. He said he wanted to consult a lawyer, and was accorded a seat and one of the attorney's sweetest smiles.

He then explained that while he was away from home the sheriff or some deputy had attached his wife's sewing machine and bureau for taxes. He didn't propose to tolerate such imposition, he declared, and came to Paducah to consult a lawyer about it.

"What is the amount of taxes?" inquired the lawyer.

"Lemme see—a dollar and 28 cents," was the reply.

The lawyer could not conceal a smile, but hastened to say: "Well, Mr. Smith, if you want my advice, it is to go back and settle that small amount. It looks like the easiest and best way out of it."

The old fellow thought a moment, and replied that he believed he would. Answering he asked: "How much do I owe you?"

"Oh, nothing, sir," was the reply. "I won't charge you anything for a little advice like that."

"But I allus pays for what I git, and want ter pay yer fee the same."

"Oh, that's all right; come in again some time when you need advice on something more important, and we'll square it then."

"Now, but I want ter pay it now. Jes' squeal out. Ef it's 25 cents, I'll pay it. Ef it's 50, there it is!" And he threw down a half-dollar and left.—Paducah (Ky.) Sun.

A BRAVE COLONEL

Recommends Pe-ru-na as a Family Medicine.

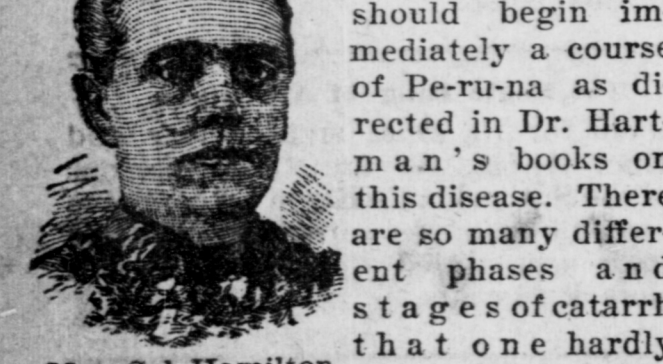

A Scientific Spring Medicine.

Colonel Arthur L. Hamilton, of the Seventh Ohio Volunteers, 259 Goodale street, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "Besides having the merits of Pe-ru-na so fully Colonel Hamilton, of Columbus, O., demonstrated in my family, I have a number of friends who have taken it for catarrh and stomach trouble, and all unite in praising it. As a remedy for catarrh I can fully recommend it." Mrs. Hamilton, wife of the gallant Colonel, is an ardent friend of Pe-ru-na also. In a letter on the subject she writes: "I have been taking Pe-ru-na for some time, and I am enjoying better health now than I have for years. I attribute the change in my health to Pe-ru-na, and recommend this excellent cathartic remedy to every woman, believing it to be especially beneficial to them."

The spring-time is the most favorable time of the year to treat catarrh. There is so much less liability to take fresh cold that the treatment is unimpeded. All old cases of chronic catarrh should begin immediately a course of Pe-ru-na as directed in Dr. Hartman's books on this disease. There are so many different phases and stages of catarrh that one hardly knows when he has it. A great many people think they are suffering from something else and have tried many medicines in vain, when if they could realize that it is catarrh and take Pe-ru-na for it they would improve promptly and soon recover entirely. There are no substitutes. Let no one persuade you there are other catarrh remedies just as good. "Winter Catarrh" is a book written by Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio. Sent free to any address.

DEWEY'S FLEET.

The Admiral Asks for More Men and More Ships for His Squadron.

The Need of a Large Naval Force in the Philippines Is Shown by Dewey's Report on the Distribution of Vessels Along the Immense Coast Line.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A request has been received by the navy department from Adm. Dewey for additional ships and men, and the department contemplates sending two or more additional navy vessels to Manila. Every available officer now on shore duty is to be ordered on board. Some of the details were made Tuesday and others will follow.

The need of a larger naval force in the Philippines is shown by Adm. Dewey's report on the distribution of his vessels, which have to be immediately distributed on account of the immense coast line of the innumerable islands.

As the army advances into the interior of the Luzon it becomes more important that a sufficient naval force should be maintained in Manila bay, and that there should be a considerable force at the naval station at Cavite.

The bulletins issued at the war department Tuesday from Gen. Otis relate to the operations of Monday afternoon and show that the progress of Gen. McArthur's plans are impeded by very severe resistance on the part of Filipinos, as well as by the difficulties of the country. The department is surprised at the determined character of the resistance offered by the Filipinos, but much gratified by the gallantry and spirit shown by our troops and the steadiness of their forward progress, though it is not rapid. The fact that Aguinaldo is commanding in person the insurgent troops, which are confronted by our column, warrants the belief that the insurgents are prepared to risk a general engagement, in which no doubt is felt that Aguinaldo's army will be destroyed.

JOHN SHERMAN COMES HOME

Cruiser Chicago Arrives at Norfolk, Va. Sick Man Transferred to a Washington Vessel.

CAPE HENRY, Va., March 29.—The cruiser Chicago, with former Secretary Sherman aboard, passed in at 10:45 a. m. Tuesday. No signals were displayed, and the ensign was at the proper place, which was taken to indicate that no serious change had taken place in Mr. Sherman's condition since.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 29.—The cruiser Chicago has arrived in Hampton Roads.

The United States cruiser Chicago having on board ex-Secretary John Sherman arrived in Hampton Roads at 12:10 o'clock Tuesday. Mr. Sherman stood the trip well and was much better Tuesday than he had been any time since his sickness began. At 1:30 o'clock Mr. Sherman was placed on a steam launch and brought ashore where many people were awaiting his arrival. The crowd cheered as the statesman was being conveyed to the Chamberlain hotel, where his daughter has been stopping since Monday. Mr. Sherman was accompanied by his secretary, Dr. McGill, and a nurse, and was given every attention on the voyage.

At 6 p. m. Mr. Sherman was again placed on the litter and taken on board the Washington boat. That Mr. Sherman is a very sick man no one who got a glimpse of the invalid's pallid features can doubt. He has lost flesh until little remains of the active and vigorous man but a frame and he is obviously far advanced in feebleness and general infirmity. While being prepared for the stretcher Mr. Sherman gave the sailors who were to carry him minute orders as to how they should handle the conveyance.

Troops Allowed to Land After Fumigation.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 29.—The 1st North Carolina regiment, which has arrived at Fort Pulaski, 14 miles below this city, on the Ward line steamer Vigilancia from Cuba, came up to Savannah Tuesday. Five companies of the 4th Virginia regiment, which arrived on the steamer San Antonio, will be allowed to come up Wednesday. Both regiments were subjected to fumigation. The troops went into camp and will be mustered out here next week. The health of the men is good.

THE ROWENA LEE EXPLODES.

All on Board Except Two Drowned—Some 60 Lives Lost—Accident Occurred Opposite Tyler, Mo.

NEW MADRID, Mo., March 30.—The steamer Rowena Lee, with about 31 passengers aboard, besides her crew, exploded opposite Tyler, Mo., about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and immediately sank, with all on board, except Capt. George Carvell and one of the crew.

At Caruthersville, Mo., she landed and took aboard 15 more passengers. It is estimated that with passengers and crew she then had aboard about 60 people. She made the next landing at Tyler, Mo., and at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon backed into midstream from Tyler to proceed on her journey. The steamer had just reached the middle of the river when she suddenly stopped and lurched as if a snag had been struck. The next moment the boat parted in the middle, a volume of steam and debris arose and the detonation of an explosion thundered over the water.

The river is running very high and the steamer immediately sank with all on board but the captain and one of the crew. They clung to wreckage and were saved by boats.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 30.—The steamer Rowena Lee was owned by the Lee line, of Memphis, and was one of the most magnificent passenger steamers in the Mississippi river trade. She plied between Memphis and Cairo. News of the sinking of the Rowena Lee spread like wildfire in Memphis. Most of the crew lived here. As to the passenger list of the ill-fated vessel, nothing could be obtained at the Memphis office of the company Wednesday night.

An effort has been made to get the names of those passengers who embarked at Cairo, but this list had not been received at a late hour Wednesday night. From local river men it was ascertained that the Rowena Lee carried a cabin crew of about 15 officers and a deck crew numbering about 30.

came three weeks ago by advice of his physicians.

The general's wife and daughter were constantly at his bedside during the past week. The body will be prepared for burial and removed to Washington Thursday afternoon.

Ludlow, arrived from Havana Wednesday and presented to the president a large silk banner, the gift of Senor Perfecto Lacoste, mayor of Havana, and president of the "Junta Patriotica." Days of the Horse Numbered.

The greatest electrician in the world declares that the days of the horse are numbered, and that in a short time electricity will completely supplant man's most useful animal. In 20 years, he asserts, the horse will be a curiosity. Diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood would also be a curiosity if all sufferers would take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. There would then be practically no dyspepsia, nervousness, sleeplessness, indigestion, constipation, malarial fever or ague.

Oldest Inhabitant—About like the average? Young fellow, I've lived in this same place for nigh on 72 years, and this here weather is more like the average than any we've had in all that time.—Judge.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system, when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is often ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. THE BEST SPRING TONIC.

As winter passes away it leaves many people feeling weak, depressed and easily tired. This means that the blood needs attention and sensible people always take a tonic at this time of year. Purgatives are not the right medicine—they weaken instead of strengthening. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best tonic medicine in the world and do not act on the bowels. They stimulate the appetite, enrich the blood, strengthen the nerves and make people feel bright, active and strong.

No one is better able to speak of this fact than Miss Hazel Snider, a charming young woman of Arlington, Ind. To-day she has rosy cheeks, sparkling eyes and a plump form, which prove that she is in good health. A year ago Miss Snider was very thin, her cheeks pale, eyes sunken and dull. She was discouraged and did not know what to do. One day I read an item in a paper of the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I tried the medicine, and when nearly through with the second box noticed a change for the better. After I had taken eight boxes I was cured, and have had no occasion to take any kind of medicine since. I owe much to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, probably my life, and I advise any one suffering with troubles similar to mine, to take these pills."—Miss HAZEL SNIDER.

MOTHERHOOD is woman's natural destiny. Many women are denied the happiness of children through some derangement of the generative organs. Actual barrenness is rare. Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the overcoming of cases of supposed barrenness. This great medicine is so well calculated to regulate every function of the generative organs that its efficiency is vouched for by multitudes of women.

SORROWS OF STERILITY

MRS. ED. WOLFORD, of Lone Tree, Iowa, writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had one child which lived only six hours. The doctor said it did not have the proper nourishment while I was carrying it. I did not feel at all well during pregnancy. In time I conceived again, and thought I would write to you for advice. Words cannot express the gratitude I feel towards you for the help that your medicine was to me during this time. I felt like a new person; did my work up to the last, and was sick only a short time. My baby weighed ten pounds. He is a fine boy, the joy of our home. He is now six weeks old and weighs sixteen pounds. Your medicine is certainly a boon in pregnancy."

Mrs. FLORA COOPER, of Doyle, S. Dak., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—Ever since my last child I suffered with inflammation of the womb, pains in back, left side, abdomen and groins. My head ached all the time. I could not walk across the floor without suffering intense pain. I kept getting worse, until two years ago I wrote to you for advice, and began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had not finished the first bottle before I felt better. I took four bottles, and have been strong and perfectly healthy ever since, and now have two of the nicest little girls."

ONLY ONE CURE FOR SCROFULA.

S. S. S. is the Only Remedy Equal to this Obstinate Disease.

There are dozens of remedies recommended for Scrofula, some of them no doubt being able to afford temporary relief, but S. S. S. is absolutely the only remedy which completely cures it. Scrofula is one of the most obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases, and is beyond the reach of the many so-called purifiers and tonics because something more than a mere tonic is required. S. S. S. is equal to any blood trouble, and never fails to cure Scrofula, because it goes down to the seat of the disease, thus permanently eliminating every trace of the taint.

The serious consequences to which Scrofula surely leads should impress upon those afflicted with it the vital importance of wasting no time upon treatment which can not possibly effect a cure. In many cases where the wrong treatment has been relied upon, complicated glandular swellings have resulted, for which the doctors insist that a dangerous surgical operation is necessary.

Mr. H. E. Thompson, of Milledgeville, Ga., writes: "A bad case of Scrofula broke out on the glands of my neck, which had to be balanced and caused me much suffering. I was treated for a long while, but the physicians were unable to cure me, and my condition was as bad as when I began their treatment. Many blood remedies were used, but without effect. Some one recommended S. S. S., and I began to improve as soon as I had taken a few bottles. Continuing the remedy, I was soon cured permanently, and have never had a sign of the disease to return." Swift's Specific——is the only remedy which can promptly reach and cure obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases. By relying upon it, and not experimenting with the various so-called tonics, etc., all sufferers from blood troubles can be promptly cured, instead of enduring years of suffering which gradually but surely undermines the constitution. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable, and never fails to cure Scrofula, Eczema, Cancer, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, Boils, Tetters, Pimples, Sores, Ulcers, etc. Insist upon S. S. S.; nothing can take its place. Books on blood and skin diseases will be mailed free to any address by the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD

A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

THE COMPASS AND THE GROWING
USE OF ELECTRICITY.

A Danger That the Magnetic Needle May Be Rendered Practically Useless to the Mariner and the Surveyor—A Curious Discovery.

Although the invention and introduction of the trolley system of street railways have been of inestimable value to civilization it has incidentally wrought some harm here and there. Emphasis was laid on one of these drawbacks to electric traction in the address delivered by Professor A. W. Rucker at a recent meeting of the British Association For the Advancement of Science.

In various parts of the world observatories have been established for the purpose of keeping track of the changes in the direction in which the magnetic needle points. It was long ago discovered not only that the compass does not aim directly at the north pole, but that the amount of variation in its indications from true north undergoes slow alterations. Hence it is necessary to make fresh charts, showing the variation for different parts of the globe every few years. But in order to get the data for such corrections—of the highest importance to the surveyor and mariner—it is requisite that careful observations be made continuously at a number of widely separated points.

Two of the most famous and hitherto useful institutions of this class are situated in Washington, in the grounds of the naval observatory and in Toronto. The interference of the electric currents that run through the earth and the track of trolley lines which have been constructed near these observatories interfere so much with the behavior of the instruments of both places that the records now obtained are practically worthless. And the experts are greatly puzzled by the problem of escaping from this vexatious interruption of their work.

So delicate are the influences which the magnets in such an observatory are intended to investigate that they can be perceived only when the apparatus is most scrupulously guarded. The room in which they are mounted is underground. Visitors are never admitted except under unusual circumstances and are required to deposit their jackknives, keys and all other metallic objects about their persons before entering the apartment. The magnets, generally bars of steel not over six inches long, are poised above a scale that is graduated to the most minute fractions, and a telescope, on an adjacent pillar, is used to read the fluctuations, which are too small to be discernible by the unassisted eye. A tiny mirror, as big as a dime, catches a beam of light more slender than the lead in a pencil and reflects it away to a sheet of slowly moving photographic paper, on which a permanent record is made. The arrangement of the apparatus is such that the movement of the magnet is magnified many times in the record, in order to render the changes perceptible.

There are three sets of instruments on duty in such an observatory. One swings horizontally, like a mariner's compass. Another dips up and down. A third is designed to measure the intensity of the earth's magnetism, which is a separate thing from the direction in which it acts. And so sensitive are they that their readings are apt to be interfered with by exceedingly trivial causes. It is customary for the superintendent to inscribe on the scroll "Visitors admitted," whenever such a breach of the regulations is permitted, or "If any abnormal fluctuation is observed in the motion of the magnets, examine the mind of the scientist who afterward examines the photographic trace."

In spite of the delicacy of the apparatus, it may seem surprising to the lay mind that the passage of trolley currents at a distance of many rods from the observatory should be able to affect the instruments within. But they do, and it is impossible to separate in the record the variations produced by genuine changes in terrestrial magnetism from those which are caused by the trolley. Professor Rucker said a few days ago: "From all parts of the world we hear of observatories ruined or threatened by the invasion of the electrical engineer. Toronto and Washington have already succumbed, Potsdam, Parc St. Maur, Greenwich and Kew are besieged, and the issue largely depends upon whether these great national observatories can or cannot make good their defense."

Although the practical service to mankind which is rendered by institutions of this class is alone sufficient to justify their maintenance and to warrant alarm as to their future, there are other questions involved which possess profound interest for the philosopher. We know that the earth is a magnet, but as yet no one is able to say what makes it so. The fundamental secret of terrestrial magnetism has not been solved. Then, too, there are various changes in direction which mark the behavior of the needle that remain to be explained. What influence is it that makes the needle swing to and fro to a microscopic extent every day? Why is it that the diurnal swing is greater in years of sun spot abundance than at the minimum stage of solar activity? Why do the indications of the needle differ in summer from those of winter? What is the key to the mystery of the long period movement that makes it necessary to rechart the situation? What causes the convulsive behavior of the magnets for a few hours or days when there is a great outbreak of sun spots? And is there any relation between the weather and the fluctuations in the earth's magnetism? There are theories on these subjects, but no generally accepted doctrines, and the human mind is so constituted that it will not rest until further light is obtained.—New York Tribune.
